County Yearly Audit Report Is Released

William Green, State Treasurer, released the calendar year 1965 report of the accounts and funds of Crawford County. This report is submitted to the board of supervisors under the requirements of the Uniform Accounting Act, and is intended to be used as a guide to more uniform and improved accounting systems and records. Green stated that his department stands ready to assist in any way to help improve accounting procedures for the county.

The report called to the attention of the board of supervisors the failure of the county to charge the City of Grayling for the expense of detaining City prisoners at the county jail and the failure of local assessors to collect all delinquent real property taxes.

The failure of two townships to issue dog licenses, as required by statute, was also the subject of criticism.

The report indicated that an accounting had been made for all delinquent taxes received by the various county departments.

All audit exceptions, along with suggested changes, were referred to the Chairman of the Board of Supervisors and the various department heads involved, with a request for a report to Mr. Green on the next taken.

I-75 One Car Crash Fatal

A Lansing man was killed early Sunday as the result of a one car accident on Interstate 75 near the North Downriver Road overpass just east of Grayling.

Gus M. Vitos, 28, of Lansing was found beneath the car after a five hour search by State Police from the Houghton Lake Post and by Sheriff Arthur Clough and deputies.

The driver of the car, Leonard Garfield, 22, of Lansing managed to crawl to the expressway and flag down a motorist after his car left the roadway and struck two trees.

Taken to Grayling Mercy Hospital, Garfield told attendants that his companion was still in the wreckage. The State Police and Sheriff were called at 3 a. m. and searched until 8 a. m. to find the wrecked vehicle. Faulty directions to the accident scene were given by Garfield who was in a state of shock and the wreckage was also obscured from the roadway.

The cause of the accident was not known, according to the Houghton Lake State Police. Vitos was one of 17 victims of fatal traffic mishaps in Michigan last weekend.

Special Social Security Checks Are Issued

First monthly Social Security checks were delivered to several elderly Grayling area residents. The special benefits, payable to persons 72 or older who are not eligible for regular social security cash benefits, were made possible by an amendment to the social security law enacted earlier this year. E. O. Wiles social security district manager, said today.

The special monthly payments, amounting to $35 a month for a couple, and $52.50 for a single person, are financed out of general Federal revenues, not out of social security tax contributions, he noted.

These payments are intended to provide a small continuing income to people who may have missed out on social security coverage because they were too old when social security started, or worked in occupations not covered by social security until recent years.

Persons 72 or older who are not eligible for a public retirement benefit from the Federal Government, or from a State or local government retirement system can collect the monthly payments, Mr. Wiles said.

Those who are receiving public retirement benefits that are less than the $35 a month for a single person, or $52.50 for a couple, may be paid the difference between their present public retirement benefit and the amount of the new special payments.

Those getting public assistance from a State welfare agency will be eligible for the new special benefits only for those months in which they do not receive a cash welfare payment.

"Most eligible people in the Grayling area were sent questionnaires from our office on the basis of their medicare application and did not have to make separate application for the special benefits," Wiles said.

Wiles also had a special message for those who may now be approaching age 72. If you reach 72 before the beginning of 1967 you may collect these special payments without any social security credit, but you should come in and apply either in the three months before your birthday or the month of your

GRAYLING MAN IN VIET NAM AIR ACTION

With 1 Field Force Viet Nam, Tuy Hoa, Rvn — When a combination of swift current and Viet Cong fire prevented an infantry battalion from crossing a river west of here, two "Chinook" helicopters manned by ten men of the 179th Aviation Company ferried all 623 soldiers across the quarter-mile-wide stream in only 35 minutes on Nov. 1, 1966.

The big choppers, temporarily stationed here with the 10th Aviation Battalion, received the call for assistance at 12:45 p. m. They had just returned from another mission, were already fueled, and by 1:10 were on the way to the crossing site 20 miles west of here.

Picking up 30 soldiers each trip, they moved all the men, including ten engineers, and all equipment, across the river completing the task at 2 p. m.

"What happened," according to Maj. Herschel C. Jones, 41, 82 Debra Dr., Fairview, Mass., was that the engineers were trying to get a footbridge across the river. But monsoon rains had swollen it, the current was too swift, and then the VC opened up. Well, we hauled (them, then went west back and picked up all the engineer bridging equipment) and brought that back with us. Nothing was lost, the troops got across."

In addition to Jones, the helicopter crews included: Spec 4 Robert B. Knight, 22, of K. P. Lake, Grayling.

25 Counties Share Snow Removal Funds

LANSING — Twenty-five counties — 13 in the Upper Peninsula and 12 in the Lower Peninsula — had enough snow last winter to qualify for Snow Removal Funds, the State Highway Commission announced today.

Commission Chairman Ardale W. Ferguson said the average snowfall for Michigan last winter was nearly 66 inches compared to 96 inches during the winter of 1964-65. This year's Snow Removal totals $12,633, an increase of $41,110 compared to last year. Crawford County had an 87 inch average snowfall and will receive $12,614.

The money, which is set aside from gas taxes and license plate fees, helps defray cost of snow removal in counties which have heavy snowfalls.

Keweenaw County in the Upper Peninsula had the highest average snowfall last year — 196 inches — compared to 230 inches the previous year. Houghton County was second with 174 inches.

Both Otsego and Benzie Counties had an average of 102 inches of snow last winter — highest in the Lower Peninsula — followed by Kalkaska County with 101 inches.

RED COAT ROUNDUP PRIZES AWARDED

The Grayling Area Annual Red Coat Roundup and Deer Pole was most successful again this year. Fourteen beautiful buck deer were on the pole from Saturday afternoon on, and hundreds of people visited the "Deer Pole" over the weekend.

First hunter bringing in a buck and first deer hung was Robert Hale of Grayling. Bob was in at the "Deer Pole" at 7:30 a. m. Saturday morning. Second hunter in was Berry Boyd also of Grayling, and his deer arrived at 8:00 a. m.

The next eight deer hung were in before 11:00 a. m., and all were awarded prizes.

Carole L. Campbell of Mt. Morris, Michigan was the first lucky woman bringing in a buck, and this was hung Saturday afternoon. Steve Katona of Grayling held heavy deer honors until Saturday night with a 7 point buck going 172 lbs. However early Saturday evening Joseph D. Proxmire of Kalamazoo came in with a buck weighing 182 lbs. and with 10 points. This deer so far has the honors for being the heaviest deer and most perfect rack.

Honors for the heaviest deer, largest rack, and most perfect rack will continue through the deer season.

Honors for the youngest hunter bringing in a deer up to now go to Larry Shepherd of Grayling who was just fourteen years old.

Business was good all through the area although businessmen stated that we did not seem to have the crowd that we had last year. In some areas of the county hunting pressure was light and in other areas pressure was up over a year ago.

"The age of tent hunters appears to be over. Don Legg stated that calls for sales of straw for tents were very limited. All trails and roads in Crawford County had many trailers and campers parked along side them, and you could sense the hunting habit. It is taking place in hunting habits.

The Chamber played host to many out-door-TV, Radio, and newspaper celebrities, and countless numbers of pictures were taken of Crawford County deer hung on the "Deer Pole."

Grayling's Bear Archery To Market Himalayan Packs and Other Products

A "natural tie in" between camping, hiking, hunting and archery was named as a major influence in an agreement between two national sporting goods manufacturers.

Bear Archery Company of Grayling, Michigan, will become the exclusive marketing agent for Himalayan Industries of Monterey, California; advertising, selling and distributing all Himalayan products.

This announcement was made jointly in a statement by Bear president Fred Bear and Richard Mack, president of Himalayan, prior to the Western NSGA show in Las Vegas, October 29-31.

Himalayan chose Bear because of its efficient sales organization, which already offers personalized distribution of Bear products to more than 2500 sporting goods dealers in all 50 states.

Members of the Bear sales force personally contact each of the Bear dealers one or more times each year. The personalized service includes advice and assistance on merchandising problems, purchasing, advertising and displaying archery equipment.

Robert Kelly, Bear marketing director, pointed out a major advantage for both Bear and Himalayan that should result from the new agreement:

"Bear Archery is constantly trying to cut costs by making production more efficient. Now with the addition of a compatible line of merchandise, salesmen can make each call doubly profitable, thereby making our marketing effort more efficient."

Fred Bear, in his statement, noted the parallel growth of many outdoor sports. "This growth," he said, "has been created by the natural tie-in between many of the outdoor sports."

"Outdoors is rapidly becoming America's favorite family recreation," Bear said. "And, good, dependable equipment is a vital part of making outdoor fun for the family. I've used Himalayan gear myself for many years and know that it is made to the same high standards that we demand of our own equipment."

Bear Archery manufactures and markets quality archery tackle for tournament, utility and hunting.

Himalayan Industries makes a complete line of mechanical-lift and contour backpacks, packbags, camp seats, sleeping bags, tents and the famous Sitzmark shorts.

Himalayan backpacks are a standard in the camping equipment industry and were official backpacks on the Conquest Expedition of Mt. Everest, and on the Makalu and Lhotse Expeditions. The Everest Pack, one Himalayan model, is an official equipment item listed by the Boy Scouts of America.

Other groups specifying use of Himalayan packs include the Department of Interior, National Research Council, National Geographic Society and the U. S. Geological Survey. Himalayan packs have been field tested by the United States Army and are now in use by Army Special Forces units fighting in Vietnam.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

As we started our stalk we kept the ridge which we were following, between us and the little white dots that bounced from one rock to another. Checking every once in awhile to see if the animals were still in the same area we would sneak up over the ridge or around a cliff and now we could make out their shape, but could not see their heads clear enough to see what they were. At this point we came to an open ravine which meant we were left without cover unless we went down about 100 yards, so that we did and made plans for the final close-up stalk. This time as we looked at the white goats, at least goats were in our mind's eye because a fish and game friend said there were goats on that particular mountain range, we saw three black bear in the berries some distance below the goats. Jeff and I decided to circle the ridge that was now between us and the goats and sneak over the ridge that was just above our goal, because of the prevailing winds which were in our favor.

As we were circling the ridge we saw another black bear on the same side of the mountain that we were on, but it was a long way off feeding on whatever it was finding in the rocks. We climbed over the ridge as planned thinking we were directly above the goats, but they were nowhere in sight. Our hearts sank with disappointment as we figured we must have spooked them. We should have known better because the bear was still there and one of the smaller bears was almost within camera range, about 200 yards down the slope from us. Jeff didn't take it's picture as it barely showed up in the viewfinder of his little camera. We motioned to each other that we would try to get closer and get a good picture, but we were running out of cover and the bear was feeding and moving down hill. Finally in desperation we stalked right out in the open only getting about twenty-five yards before the bear saw us and fled with his silky black coat shining in the sunlight as he leapt down to timber line. His coat looked blue and deep purple in the glistening light. No pictures yet! However, there was still the black bear sow and her two cubs feeding down the mountain in good position for a stalk. Just then, as we were moving back up toward the ridge, Jeff whispered, "look." There, about 350 yards away were the Mountain Sheep. They weren't goats after all. We could see a ram with a full curl, or legal to shoot. However, Jeff had only his camera and I was backing him up with a vial of spray gas used for fighting in close attack conditions. Dall Sheep are very spooky and not likely to charge like a bear or moose, but we still had to get closer to be in camera range. A large rock mass lay between us and the sheep so Jeff went around on the downhill side and I, around on the opposite to see where our best vantage point over a little ridge, there were the might be. The next time I peeked five Rams and a Ewe below me about 75 yards away and Jeff on his stomach on a small uprising, protruding cliff snapping pictures at about 50 yards from the band of sheep. By now the wind had changed and was blowing at our backs and I knew it would only be moments before the sheep fled. It was a beautiful sight to see the white string of sheep with the big Ram in the lead trotting down to timber line. There they stopped all in a bunch to look back at what ever scared them. After a moment they moved over to the far side of the mountain. At the same time the black bear I mentioned got wind of us and too ran to the timber line. We decided to call it quits for this trip.

By now it was time to start back down so we chose our route and as we were headed back we saw three moose, a cow and two calves, feeding down at the timber line. We also saw the first bear again about a half mile away. A very interesting trip and I personally rank my camera hunting buddy Jeff with anyone that might have a dozen sheep trophies hanging on a wall. Out of all the species of 250 salmon that Jeff caught with hook and line he kept only six, releasing the rest to go on their way to spawn. I'm happy to know a good sportsman.

Thanksgiving - A Great Tradition...

It has been said that nothing is so constant as change. Bulldozers and earth movers give evidence of this every day. And yet, a few traditions and principles will very likely be with us as long as there is a United States, and as long as we enjoy freedom under representative government. A typically American tradition is Thanksgiving, this year to be observed November 24—a day of quiet when the family foregathers in the privacy of home to give thanks and to partake of that fine old symbol of Thanksgiving—a roast turkey.

Once again, it will be a sober day for many who have members of their families in the Armed Forces. And it will be a sad day for more than a few who must endure an empty space at the table that will never be filled. For these, the tragedy of war has exacted the ultimate price. While it may be small comfort, they should be assured that they have the deepest sympathy of all the good people of our country. On Thanksgiving, there should be no other kind. And, while we think of Thanksgiving in terms of family gatherings, it should not be forgotten that giving thanks with due humility is a matter for the individual. In that moment, we are alone with our thoughts. They should be worthy of a great day and a great tradition.

Nearly 400 persons attended Friday evening's "Turkey Trot" for Grayling High School students and friends. Keying the war-simplified decorative scheme was a large red and white "steamed" turkey pen in the center of the gym with two large white turkey gobblers getting the attention of the dancers and spectators. Flags and patriotic emblems decorated the walls and beneath one bunting-draped arrangement was a platform from which Kep Fraser's Trav'rs City orchestra provided the dance music. The upstairs hall was reserved for a refreshment table which was constantly circled by dancers. One of the evening's highlights—and there were many because of the work Chairman Barbara Borchers and her committee put on the plans—was the many "robber" dances which everyone enjoyed. The party was an interesting one and the Junior class can be congratulated on the success of this pleasant Thanksgiving party which attracted such a tremendous crowd.

The vigilance of our conservation officers enabled them to apprehend and arrest three men for hunting deer in the Hanson Game preserve. The victims were Bernard Micker of Flint, Ed Grace of Elk Rapids and Walter Lynn of Flint. The arrests were made Sunday morning by Clarence Roberts, Neil Matthews and John Peterson. The men had killed a buck and while two of them were dragging it out of the preserve, the conservation officers arrived and placed the men under arrest. Each paid fines and costs totalling $100.

On Nov. 28th the Army Air Forces training command announced the graduation of Pfc. Arthur H. Feldhauser from the B-24 Liberator bomber mechanics school at Keesler Field, Biloxi, Miss. The graduates will go to active duty on the line, to factory schools for more advanced training or to one of the gunnery schools.

Politics is at the root of the subsidy plan. Under the subsidy plan the men now fighting for us overseas will have to help pay our grocery bills when they return. Money from the federal treasury would be used to subsidize the producers of farm crops while city consumers, employed at the highest wage rates in the history of the United States, would be able to buy at lower prices. Instead of heading off inflation, as the supporters of the measure claim, it would be inflationary in itself. Subsidies add to the war debt. Subsidies add to the purchasing power, the surplus-buying power, of the consumers. Added to the war costs which must be met by war bonds would be the food costs. They too would have to be paid out of the bond receipts or government revenues. If consumers are not now able to pay food costs when their income is the highest in history, what will they do when the war is won and wages drop? We all know the answer; subsidies would become permanent and another drove of tax-eaters would be saddled onto the people. Albert S. Goss, master of the National Grange declared "There are few sources of political control more potent than that of cash subsidies. The supreme court has held that the government has the right to regulate what it subsidizes."

CHEMISTRY CLASS TAKES M.S.U. TRIP

By Carol Miller
Tuesday, November 15th, the Chemistry class of Grayling High School spent the day at Michigan State University. The trip was sponsored by the American Cancer Society. Chaperones for the trip were Mrs. Eli Beery, Mrs. J. R. C. Patterson and Mr. George Nelson, who is the Grayling Chemistry teacher.

The American Cancer Society sponsored the trip in order for the students to become more acquainted and possibly interested in the fields of Medicine and Research.

The students left Grayling at 6:30 a. m. and arrived at Lansing about 10:30 that morning.

Our first tour was through the Bio-Chemistry and Chemistry building where the students were divided into groups. We were taken through the labs where our guide explained what exactly was being done in each lab and also how the equipment was used. The students enjoyed the tour very much. It was very interesting and educational.

At 12:00 noon we were guided to the International Building on Campus where the students ate at the cafeteria. The lunch was paid for by the Cancer Society.

Some of the students found their way to the book store and brought back different items to remember the trip by.

After lunch we walked to the Veterinarian clinic where we also had a guided tour. In this building were many animals some which were used for research. This building was very interesting.

We ended the tour about 3:30 and arrived in Grayling about 7. Those students who went had a very enjoyable and worthwhile experience.

Our most special thanks goes to everyone who helped in the kitchen, dining room, at the door, with donations of food and money. Some time in the near future we will again treat you with an afternoon coffee and Alekshiver (you know what that is, don't you?)

Due to Thanksgiving, our next meeting will be on Thursday, December 1, at the home of Mrs. Esther Bryson with Mrs. Elise Anderson as co-hostess. Mrs. Robert Haskel will give a report on LCV convention which was held in Detroit during October.

VIKING DRAMA CLUB SCHEDULES TRY-OUTS

Wednesday, November 30, has been tentatively set as the date for try-outs for "The Miracle Worker," the next production scheduled by the Viking Drama Club of Grayling High School.

"The Miracle Worker" is William Gibson's dramatic story of the life of Helen Keller. In the academy award-winning production on stage and screen, Ann Bancroft portrayed the title role of Annie Sullivan, the miracle worker. Patty Duke played the role of Helen Keller as a child.

Directing the local production will be Carl Minor, Head of Speech and Drama at Grayling High School. He expects this serious drama to equal or even surpass "The Curious Savage" and "Jane Eyre," the plays considered by himself to be the best productions at Grayling High School in recent years.

Try-outs are open to any member of the Viking Drama Club or to those who wish to become members. Keeping with traditional practices, the leading roles, when possible, will undoubtedly go to drama students who have not as yet had an opportunity to portray a lead. Also, in order to give members of the recent cast of "Tom
